REMOTE CONTROL

In a matter of weeks, we've become a remote society. School, Work, Shopping, even doctor appointments are currently being held through video conferencing platforms. With so many social media outlets, mobile devices, and tablets, we've been ushered into a form of social distancing years before Covid19 swept through our everyday routines.

Unfortunately, now isn't the time to reminisce about the good old day but instead adapt to the wave that been forced upon us. Video conferencing is here, and moving forward will continue to replace in-office meetings. Distance learning has been a part of college for over 20 years now, so why not apply it to all grade levels? Change is the law of life, and time is the government! Soon, there will be a need for individuals who are proficient in setting up remote access, so use this pandemic as a tutorial for the future.

Chromebooks have replaced schoolbooks, Doordash/ Uber Eats are replacing waiters, Electronic payments are replacing credit cards, Amazon is replacing Wal-Mart, and Laptops are replacing office buildings.

Empire Consulting can equip your company, organization, or family to adapt to this remote society. Don't be replaced when you can master the replacement.
